

COOLIDGE TAKES PARTY CONTROL— ADAMS IS OUT

William M. Butler Named to Position With National Committee

Washington, May 2.—President Coolidge has laid a firm and heavy hand on the Republican party organization. Now, that his nomination at Cleveland six weeks hence has been placed in the category of certainties, he has taken over absolute control of the G. O. P. machine and henceforth his, will be the guiding hand on the steering wheel and his will be the foot on the accelerator.

The president's assumption of control has been so gradual and easy that the Republican Senatorial clique that "ran" the Chicago convention four years ago, have had but little voice in shaping the plans for the Cleveland conclave.

Starting in auspiciously by taking the convention away from Chicago, where it was destined to go Mr. Coolidge sent it to Cleveland. He followed this up by naming Representative Theodore Burton, of Ohio, as temporary chairman and keynoter, and he topped it off today by accepting the resignation of John T. Adams, as chairman of the national committee and designating William M. Butler, of Massachusetts as Adams' successor. Butler announced himself some time ago as a Republican candidate for senator from Massachusetts this year, Senator David I. Walsh, the Democratic incumbent, being up for reelection. It is now expected that Butler will withdraw from this contest, devote himself entirely to the task of electing Mr. Coolidge and if that is accomplished next November, graduate into the new Coolidge cabinet.

Three more decisions of paramount importance remain to be made with regard to the Cleveland convention—selection of a permanent chairman; the designation of the man who will make the nominating speech for Mr. Coolidge and lastly and more important, election of a running mate. In view of the forceful manner in which Mr. Coolidge has taken over the organization there was little doubt today but that he will make these decisions as he has made the others.

The President is said to be desirous of having Senator Borah of Idaho make either the nominating speech or sound the party call as chairman. Regarding the vice president Mr. Coolidge is thus far said to have expressed no preference other than that the nominee be from the west and that he be "regular," in everything that the term implies. Adams has long been associated with certain senators who, it is said, have not been able to look eye to eye with the White House. He has consistently opposed the world court endorsed by both Harding and Hughes, and has courageously said so in the face of White House disapproval.

He likewise differed with the president over the dismissal of Edwin Denby as secretary of the navy and Harry M. Daugherty as attorney general.

A thorough reorganization of the national committee will follow the national convention, George B. Lockwood, secretary, whose editorship of the national republican has brought him frequently into the limelight, recently, also will retire.

XENIA IS LOOKING FOR ANOTHER BAND

Urbana "beat Xenia to it" in engaging the services of the Sidney band, for the annual fair this year.

Harry M. Saxbe, secretary of the Champaign County Fair Association, learned that the Xenia fair secretary was negotiating for the services of the band. As the two fairs are held the same week it meant that either Xenia or Urbana would be without the services of the band as a fair attraction.

So Saxbe jumped into his trusty Buick coupe and went to the Shelby County seat this week where he contracted for the band. So Xenia fair officials are looking for another attractive feature in the line of musical organizations.

FLIGHT COMMANDER IS STILL MISSING

Cordova, Alaska, May 2.—Major Frederick L. Martin with his flagplane Seattle of the United States Army round-the-world flight, was still missing today.

Despite the fact that the coast guard cutters Algonquin, Pioneer and Halda and all available cannery boats have been searching for 24 hours they have found no trace of the missing airman.

CARUSO WIDOW AND NEW MATE PARTED.

Mrs. E. A. Ingram and Gloria Caruso.

Friends in New York have confirmed the separation of Mrs. E. A. Ingram, widow of the late Enrico Caruso, from her husband, Captain E. A. Ingram, of the British Army. Captain Ingram is said to have criticized the "crudeness" of his wife's friends whom he met at Palm Beach on their honeymoon and to have denounced Americans in general. His wife suggested that if he did not like her friends he could return to England. He did. Little Gloria Caruso is said to be very fond of her step-father.

IRRIGATION SAID TO BE AT BOTTOM OF CYCLONIC STORMS IN SOUTH

Editor's Note:—E. B. "Farmer" Dunn, famous weather forecaster, in the following exclusive article, gives his explanation of the cyclone which swept the south, leaving death and destruction in its wake. Dunn was formerly in charge of the United States Weather Bureau in New York City.

By E. B. DUNN
New York, May 2.—The violent cyclone which swept the Southern States on Tuesday and Wednesday, causing the loss of over a hundred lives and leaving wreckage and desolation along its track, is but one of hundreds of storms, which had a birthplace over the intensely heated irrigated country of the Rocky Mountain region, principally southern Arizona and southern California, which has in recent years become the breeding place of most of our violent storms.

Our Southwest, in fact, has become the best storm breeder in the world. As long as man continues to spread water over an intensely heated desert country, the rest of the population had better keep its ears to the ground for just such havoc as devastated parts of the southern states this week.

There is a reason, and that reason is irrigation. With the extension of irrigation, cloudbursts, floods, cyclones and tornadoes will become more numerous and more dangerous.

On Tuesday morning the storm had become a well rounded out cyclone of considerable intensity, then central over Oklahoma and Kansas, with an egg shaped outline reaching from Iowa to the Gulf coast over Texas.

Heavy rain was then falling over most of the Southwestern states. As the storm moved eastward it was preceded by unseasonably high temperature and was followed on its western side by much cold weather. In fact, freezing temperatures were recorded over a large belt in the Southwest.

The colder air overruns the warmer air, which starts a whirling motion which, in most cases, reaches a velocity of 400 or 500 miles an hour and destroys everything within its reach. The funnel swings forth and back and jumps from place to place as it moves east or northwest. Its suction covers an area of from fifty feet to two miles.

The tornadoes began to form on Wednesday morning, the first was over Arkansas and Louisiana and during the day increased in number and it is possible that three or more were in operation at one time.

The total vote cast at the primary will probably not exceed 315,000, nearly 32,000 votes less than was polled in the 1920 presidential primary, when women were not voting. Harry M. Daugherty, former attorney general, latest returns show, is nearly 6,000 votes below the next Coolidge candidate, Mrs. John G. Battelle, Columbus. The former attorney general, however, has increased his lead over George H. Bender, Cleveland, the high Johnson candidate, to nearly 83,000 votes.

EFFICIENCY OF RADIO SETS IS MENACED IN U. S.

National Conference Called
In Washington to Discuss Matter.

Washington, May 2.—The value and efficiency of the estimated 5,000,000 radio receiving sets in the United States is menaced unless broadcasters reach a new voluntary agreement to check interference.

This was learned from Secretary of Commerce Hoover today, who announced that regardless of passage of radio bills by congress he will call a radio conference within the next few months.

Broadcasters, manufacturers, scientists, government radio experts and amateurs will be asked to assemble in Washington for a national conference to perfect voluntary regulations and eliminate situations that congressional legislation cannot reach.

Secretary Hoover said that he would await action of congress on radio legislation in order to determine the steps regarded as necessary to save what has become the greatest of American pastimes. What the radio situation will be five years from now Hoover admitted was a serious problem which he would not attempt to anticipate.

Practically all available wave lengths that serve the average commercial receiving set have been distributed to broadcasters. A rapid increase in the application for permits to operate broadcasting stations has been noted at the department of commerce. Fourteen new stations were recently licensed in New York City alone.

Adding to the interference caused by licensed stations, thousands of amateurs have gone into the unauthorized broadcasting business and with their station to station calls have thoroughly complicated the situation.

On May 1 there were 577 broadcast stations in operation in the United States compared to three September 3, 1921; 36 January 1, 1922; 570 January 31, 1923, and 534 January 31, 1924. How many unauthorized broadcasters are operating is now known to the department of commerce. Estimates on receiving sets are all the way from three million to fifteen million.

Practically all wave between 222 and 600 meters have been assigned. Many large broadcasters are operating on similar wave lengths, dividing the broadcasting time. Wave lengths below 222 and over 600 will not serve the average receiving set and those over 600 interfere with marine communication.

Secretary Hoover has asked the United States census bureau to secure radio statistics and the survey is now in progress.

TAX PROGRAM IS MENACED; BREACH IN PARTY'S RANKS

Washington, May 2.—Democratic opposition to the Mellon plan for reducing federal taxes swung into action in the senate today when Senator Simmons, of North Carolina, minority finance leader, formally offered a substitute schedule for the taxes proposed by the administration.

The Simmons plan, based upon a minimum normal tax of 2 per cent and a maximum surtax of 40 per cent, would offer larger reductions to the small taxpayers and impose heavier rates upon large incomes than those proposed by the Mellon schedule.

A canvass indicated the Simmons plan would be adopted by the senate with ultimately a compromise between the Democratic substitute and the Longworth bill, passed by the house. These two measures vary slightly in rates, the house bill stopping with a maximum surtax of 37 1/2 per cent.

Washington, May 2.—A break in the ranks of senate Democrats endangers the Democratic tax program, which they were confident they could force the senate to accept instead of the Mellon plan. The rift developed over the problem of tax exempt securities.

A Democratic caucus was held at the capitol in an effort to swing into line five or six Democrats who are ready to go over to the Mellon plan.

The question that first caused Democratic defections is a provision inserted by Republicans to prevent millionaires from dodging their income tax obligations by buying tax exempt securities. Democratic leaders are fighting the provision on the ground that it will affect the tax exemption securities of every state and municipality of the nation by making such securities less desirable and forcing larger interest rates.

The Republican amendment would prevent any taxpayer from deducting under the heading of business losses and interest paid, any sum higher than the interest he received on tax exempt securities held by him.

NOT TAKEN SERIOUSLY
Columbus, O., May 2.—Supporters of James A. White, former superintendent of the Ohio Anti-Saloon league, now a candidate for the Republican gubernatorial nomination, did not consider seriously today the reported proposition of Attorney General Crabb that he would withdraw from the gubernatorial race in favor of Congressman Theodore Burton if all other contenders would take similar action.

GENERAL STRIKE OF ACTORS NOT LIKELY IN EAST

Crisis Believed Averted as Announcement Made
In New York

New York, May 2.—There will be no general strike of actors June 1, with its consequent disastrous effect upon the theatrical business of the country, it was predicted in authoritative informed quarters today as the Producing Managers' Association met to discuss the crisis.

What probably will happen, it was said, is this:

1.—The managers will decide first of all that a strike must be averted.

2.—The issue with the actors equity association will be comprised and a ten year agreement signed.

3.—The compromise will mean, it was said, that theatrical companies for the next ten years will be composed of 80 per cent equity members and 20 per cent Fidelity or non equity members. The Fidelity members are mostly comprised of stars who resent the idea of working under a union contract, preferring the old method of dealing personally with the management. While officials of the equity association they are still demanding a complete equity shop it is regarded as a certainty they will agree to a compromise if effected on the 80-20 basis.

The unsettled conditions as a result of the present crisis is beginning to show its effect along the Rialto. Florenz Ziegfeld, who is opposed to the equity shop, announced today that the Follies will close May 17 because of existing conditions. The road tour of the Follies of 1923 will terminate at Newark, May 10, and he said, the company's Pacific coast tour was cancelled because of the probability of a strike.

DETECTIVES PROBE CLEVELAND BLAST; FIND BOMB EVIDENCE

Cleveland, O., May 2.—Detectives probing the explosion late Wednesday night in which William O'Brien and John Nestor, labor leaders, were perhaps fatally injured, six others slightly hurt, O'Brien's automobile wrecked and windows in Euclid avenue stores smashed, found conclusive today that a bomb had been placed in the auto, attached to the electrical steering gear, which was set off when O'Brien stepped on the starter. Wires and caps left there by bombers were found near the labor temple in front of which the explosion occurred.

O'Brien's death, it was said this morning, was but a matter of a few hours. A second operation was to be performed on O'Brien during the day. Detectives were preparing for a round up of possible suspects, a list of personal and labor enemies of O'Brien, one of the most prominent leaders in organized labor in this section, having been secured. A man of very pronounced views, active in labor wars here and in Chicago, O'Brien had made many foes within and without union circles detectives said.

WORK OF REMOVING BODIES FROM MINE FURTHER DELAYED

Wheeling, W. Va., May 2.—The toll of bodies taken from the Benwood mine of the Wheeling Steel Corporation this morning still stands at forty-nine, with sixty-one bodies listed as missing.

Gas, water and falls of roof stone handicap work and this morning an official announcement was made that efforts to get through entry number 8 had for the time being been abandoned, and efforts were being concentrated to reach the section of the mine through entry number 12.

Exhausted rescuers were working doggedly, but it would be night before they hoped to accomplish their goal.

Today a dozen funerals are to be held, following the 14 held yesterday that included three triple funerals, and two double ones.

Relief fund today was swelled by a $10,000 contribution from the Red Cross who with the Salvation army workers have been unceasingly working to alleviate suffering among the rescuers and the families of victims.

GENEROUS CONTRIBUTOR
Cleveland, May 2.—This city's fund for the relief of German children has been swelled to $11,660.41 by receipt of a check for $15,115.42 from "an anonymous lover of little children."

According to an agreement, the person who sent the check will withdraw payment if his name is revealed.

WOMAN SWALLOWS A CLOTHES PIN

Columbus, O., May 2.—The "woman's stunt" of holding clothes pins between the teeth, while hanging out the Monday wash cost Mrs. Lola Hockenberry, of this city, an operation and discomfort. Mrs. Hockenberry is to be released today from White Cross hospital, where an operation was performed to remove a clothes pin from her stomach. She slipped and fell while hanging out clothes and swallowed the pin.

SUIT EXPECTED TO DETERMINE ISSUE

Cleveland, O., May 2.—Suit to determine whether the Municipal Savings and Loan Company is a preferred creditor of the Representative Realty Company, builder of thousands of homes in Cleveland and suburbs, was expected to be brought today in the county courts. Both companies, which were closely allied, having interlocking directorates, are in the hands of receivers.

Among the liabilities of the Municipal is a deposit of $1,400,000 of county funds, in connection with which Attorney General C. C. Crabbe was expected to begin an official investigation before a special grand jury.

SUPPORTS FIRE FIGHTERS' UNION

Cleveland, May 2.—The Cleveland Federation of Labor will support the organized city fire fighters. It charged the administration with attempting to "wreck the union" and subscribes to the open shop policy. The controversy involves the rights of city firemen to organize and the recent suspension of the president of the union for disregarding Safety Director Barry's rule against organization in the department.

SENTENCE COMMUTED

Columbus, O., May 2.—On recommendation by the State Board of Pardons, Governor Donaghy has commuted the sentence of Harvey North, of Athens, who has been serving in the penitentiary since last December for a violation of the prohibition laws, it was announced today.

NO WONDER THE DOG CAME BACK

"You can bet your life I'm going home," said Jerry. "Might just as well start now—I'm advertised for in the Gazette-Republican."

"It used to be that a dog could run away once in a while, but not a chance anymore. No more night life for me, I guess. It's Home, Sweet Home for little Jerry!"

Mr. David Bryson, Route No. 5, Jerry's owner, advertised for him in the Lost columns of the Gazette-Republican and the next day the wanderer returned of his own accord.

One of Jerry's friends might have named the Gazette-Republican on some doorstep in the early morning and tipped him off to the ad. Anyhow Jerry says it's hard to stay lost after the case has been reported to 111.

CONFER HEARING LASTS FOUR HOURS; DECISION FRIDAY

H. T. Confer, suspended patrolman in the Xenia Police Department, will be told whether he will be permanently removed from the department or re-instated late Friday afternoon.

The City Commission, following a four-hour public hearing on charges against the deposed officer filed by City Manager S. O. Hale, and held in the commission chamber at City Hall Thursday night, recessed until 4 o'clock Friday evening to render a decision in the case.

Testimony of a number of witnesses was taken in the lengthy hearing before the commission, which was attended by as many spectators as could crowd into the narrow confines of the commission chamber. It is estimated that at least 300 people, many of them women, jammed into the small room as spectators at the hearing which lasted from 7:30 o'clock to 11:30 o'clock Friday night. The majority of spectators were required to stand throughout the hearing because of lack of chairs.

Confer was suspended April 22 by City Manager Hale when charges against him were filed with the commission. The charges were incompetency, failure to obey orders, conduct unbecoming an officer, stirring up strife and discord in the Police Department and insubordination. City Solicitor J. A. Finney, who prosecuted the case, introduced a number of witnesses to support the charges. The defense counsel, J. Fred Anderson and E. F. McKee from Springfield, introduced only Confer and E. W. Middleton, after the city admitted the good reputation of the policeman without introduction of character witnesses.

Testimony introduced by City Solicitor Finney tended to show that Confer was guilty of many blunders in the performance of his duties. The defense attempted to show that Confer's inefficiency was due to lack of instruction from superior officers.

Before the hearing of testimony began, Judge H. L. Smith, as president of the commission, overruled a motion of E. F. McKee, of counsel for the defense, for dismissal of the charges. City Manager S. O. Hale testified that he had received frequent reports against Confer. The city manager was cross examined by J. Fred Anderson, of defense counsel.

Chief of Police M. E. Graham testified that Confer had called him a "d—lar" on one occasion and that he went away a good deal during the day when he was subject to call, without notifying the chief where he could be reached.

Sheriff Morris Sharp testified that he believed Confer was in his office during the morning of the day a hearing relative to law enforcement, conducted by John Powell, from the office of E. F. McDonald, state director of prohibition enforcement was held, but could not be certain. He said Confer had always conducted himself all right when with him but that he had never seen him make an arrest by himself. Deputy Sheriff John Baughn testified that on the day of the Powell hearing, Confer was in and out of the office all day and that he heard Roy Zoll, a private detective from Springfield, giving Confer orders to bring in certain witnesses. He named Burgess Leach and Mrs. Sanders as witnesses Confer was sent for. He said Miss Elsie Canby, stenographer, Powell, Zoll, Confer, Rev. E. W. Middleton and Dr. R. L. Haines were in the office during the hearing. He said Confer came to the office first between 9 and 10 o'clock in the morning.

Police Judge E. Dawson Smith testified that Confer is "absolutely incompetent, inefficient and not subject to training or instruction and that it was hard to get him to understand anything.

The defense placed Confer on the stand, and the suspended officer testified that he was called in the afternoon to testify in the Powell hearing and was not present in the morning and that he brought witnesses to the hearing at the request of Powell. He admitted he had an altercation with Chief Graham and that he accused the chief of giving him a "dirty deal" in the police assignments and also that he had called the Chief a "d—lar." He said the story about a dog was a "frame-up" and that he had won the displeasure of the Chief because he could not tell corn liquor from rubbing alcohol when testifying on the stand. He said he received no instructions as to his duties from Chief Graham or Judge Smith. On cross examination he admitted that he used poor judgment by not calling headquarters from a police box when he met two men for whom police were searching, instead of walking to headquarters to notify other officers. He also admitted that if police assignments were given out by seniority rights that he was not entitled to the day beat, and also admitted the questions at the Powell hearing were directed against Chief Graham.

The defense introduced Rev. E. W. Middleton, who testified that he was present all day at the Powell hearing, but that Confer did not appear until in the afternoon. Attorneys for neither side wished to present arguments and after the hearing of the testimony, the case went directly to the commission for decision.

MONEY AT WORK

Brief but Important Lessons in Finance, Markets, Stocks, Bonds and Investments

The opportunity to save and invest surplus wealth to further production is something new in the world. Saving used to mean "hoarding."

Saving in the old sense was largely a matter of hoarding. The person most successful in hoarding usually got the reputation of being a miser. Before the days of banks there was no way of investing surplus earnings except in land, and land being the badge of overlordship, the merchant farmer, or artificer, beyond owning the home he lived in and occasionally the farm he cultivated, had to hoard if he wanted to save anything at all. Interest and loans were even held by the respectable folk to be immoral and "against the will of God."

As a matter of fact, modern civilization in its material aspect began with the establishment of banks. The man that made the first draft, bill of exchange or note did as much for the world as the man who invented the wheelbarrow or the pick axe.

The CARE-FREE COLUMN

COPYRIGHT 1924 BY G. W. G.

And now the hardest part of woman's work in the home—washday—has been made completely care-free.

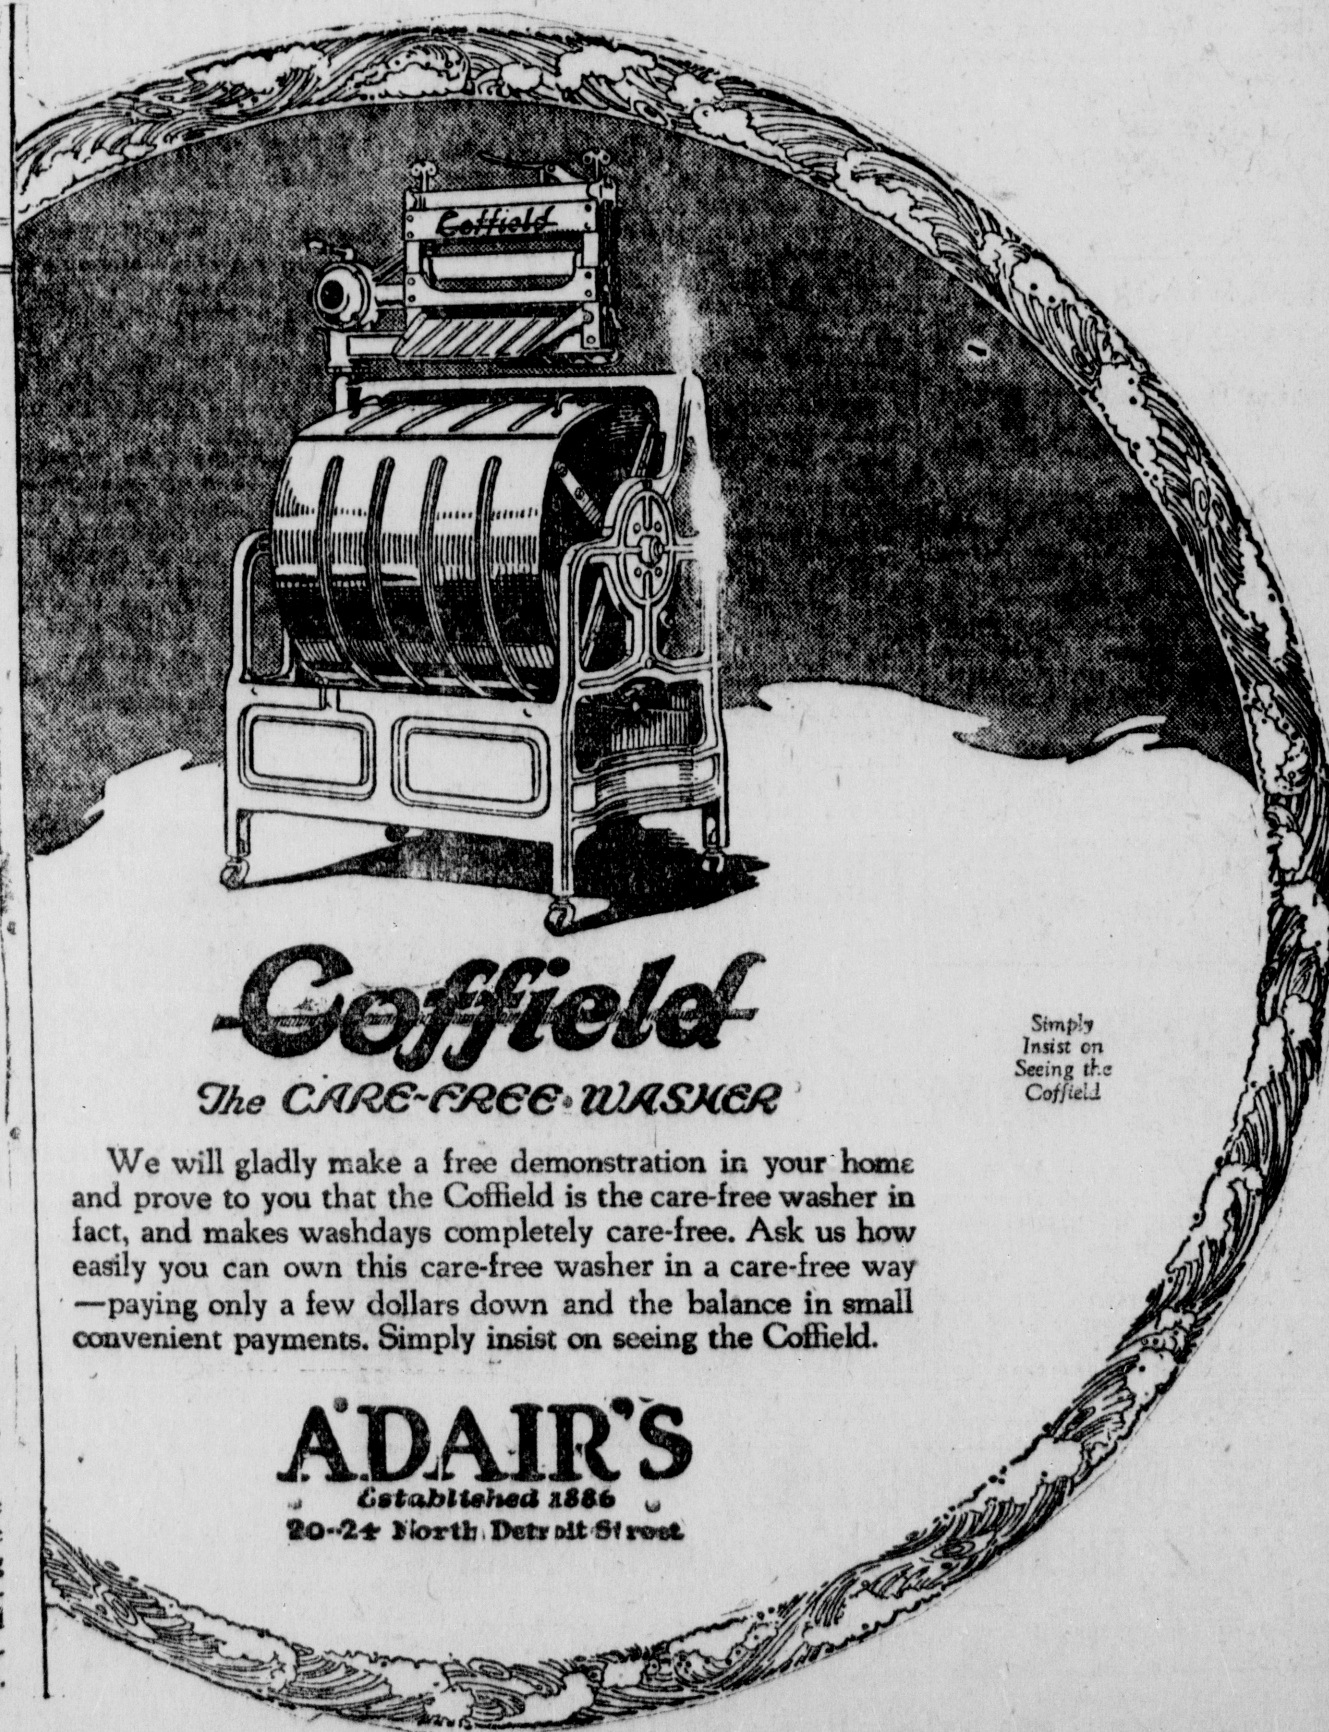

CARE-FREE: Relief from anxiety, care, concern, direction or management.
—COFFIELD

There's an entirely new meaning to this old story, for not only has the work of washing been made care-free, but the washer itself is care-free.

The care-free washer has only the simplest mechanism. Nothing in the tub but the washing. Nothing to lift out or put back. Nothing to oil or clean. Not a single thing to adjust or look after. Nothing but one big round copper tub rocked back and forth like a cradle.

There's no machinery in the Coffield tub and it's as smooth as porcelain inside. Nothing to rub or tear the clothes. Yet the clothes are turned over and over, leaving none on the bottom of the tub while washing. The water is always so active that a scum line never forms. The way this forceful suds action makes every piece sweet and clean is a delight. The Care-Free Coffield makes the whitest, cleanest clothes that ever came out of suds.

Even the wringer is care-free on the Coffield. The extra wide cushion rolls make wringing extra easy, do not break buttons, and the patented Coffield shutter and stationary drain-board are care-free features.

MAY DAY DANCE IS SUCCESSFULLY SPONSORED

Added laurels for being sponsors of many of Xenia's social affairs were given Alpha Theta Chapter, Delta Theta Tau Sorority, as a result of the success of the May Day dance, held at the Elks' Club, Thursday evening.

One of the most congenial guest groups that has attended a local social affair, enjoyed the party, which was highly successful.

The spring-like combination of lavender and white was used in decking the club rooms of the affair. The stairs leading to the social rooms were twined with the streamers, and the same color scheme was carried out upstairs. Fluted streamers were suspended from the chandelier at each corner of the room, and the center was draped with graceful festoons.

A May-pole was arranged in the center of the floor and late in the evening the guests participated in an effective May-pole dance.

The party "waxed merry" when confetti and serpentine were distributed among the guests which added to the hilarity. A large part of the success of the evening is owed to Jack Plotron's orchestra, of Dayton, which furnished a good program of dance music.

Card tables were placed in the room adjoining the ball room for the guests but dancing proved the most popular feature. Miss Nelle McKay, read the palms of the guests, during the evening.

Many out of town guests attended the dance.

MODISH MITZI—They All Look Alike Against the Light

"Which is who?" says Aunt Sophia as the Trio comes sauntering in. They all look alike against the light—straight up and down, just the fashionable silhouette. But how can you tell which is Polly, or Mitzi, or Adelaide?

The variation is only in detail, but that's considerable. Here is a close-up of Mitzi's—black satin and black crepe. The dress is crepe, the flounces are satin, the only trimming is a row of black tassels down the side.

Adelaide is slim and slinky as usual. Her dress is dark crepe marocain and white—very military with its rows of braid. She will wear it with a trim Directoire sailor hat with a high crown and a big silver blucle in front.

Polly's is a straight line dress, too something new for Polly. She usually wears frills. This is a satin faced beige crepe with an oddly cut vest front. A large and brilliant plaid chiffon handkerchief is its only (and sufficient) accessory.

They tried it as a last resort!

CITY EMERGES FROM WILDERNESS IN TWO YEARS IN WASHINGTON STATE

One day in January, 1922, a small group of men stood in the wilderness at the junction of the Columbia and Cowlitz Rivers, in Western Washington, fifty miles northwest from Portland, and exchanged some words. They were from the South. Soon the site of the conference was swarming with the activities of 4000 laborers equipped with construction machinery.

Today, as the city of Longview, it has more than 5000 inhabitants, 476 permanent buildings, twenty-six stores, two banks, ninety-seven business enterprises, a postoffice of the second class, two hotels, a daily newspaper with more than 3,000 subscribers, an up-to-date school building with 692 pupils and twenty-two teachers, a community building, forty-four miles of graded streets, twenty-four miles of graveled streets, six miles of paved streets, seventeen miles of sewers, fourteen miles of water mains, twenty-one masonry buildings, 579 residences, five permanent workmen's dormitories, sheltering 500 men; a telephone exchange with capacity for 6000 telephones and an electric power and lighting plant.

Work is far advanced on the first unit of the Long Bell Lumber Company's manufacturing plant, structures covering thirty-four acres.

The first unit of permanent Columbia River docks for ocean-going steamships, with berthinglength of 1400 feet, is nearing completion.

Work is progressing on a thirty mile railroad from Longview into the company's vast timber holdings, covering more than 70,000 acres, acquired from the Weyerhaeuser Timber Company.

The Long-Bell Lumber Company will employ about 4,000 men in it mills and logging operations. This alone will insure a population of 20,000 at Longview as soon as the mills swing into operation which will be next July.

The growth of this city is matched by the career of its builder, Robert A. Long, executive head of the Long-Bell Lumber Company of Kansas City, Mo. In 1875 he established a small lumber yard in a Kansas town. From that small beginning has grown probably the largest lumber manufacturing and distributing enterprise in the world, owning and operating in the Southern States eleven pine sawmill plants, the Weed Lumber Company's plant in Northern California, four hardwood plants in the South, three creosoting plants, 130 retail lumber yards and employing 8,000 persons.

This company's lumber production activities in Washington are declared to be the forerunner of similar enterprises in Oregon, where it also owns extensive stands of pine, fir and cedar timber.

GENERAL DAWES RETURNS; CONFIDENT REPARATION PLAN WILL BE IN OPERATION SOON

Brigadier General Charles G. Dawes and Owen D. Young reached New York, April 28, on the Leviathan in a jocund mood, foreseeing no obstacles to the adoption of their German reparations plan. Henry M. Robinson, member of the second Experts' Commission, also arrived.

All three of the Americans were in fine fettle. General Dawes went away a reticent man. He returned a taciturn one. He shoved his upside-down pipe into his teeth when he was asked on what authority his name had been mentioned for the vice presidency.

He was going home that was all. He was glad the job was over. He disclaimed much credit. He was only one of ten men, he said. Go see the others. Go ask Mr. Young, there was one of the most level-headed useful citizens in the United States. Go ask him.

Then he did unlimber to the extent of saying that abroad there had been "every disposition to agree on all points," and he hoped the reparation plan would receive the same consideration here.

Mr. Young met all criticisms with compelling logic. The plan was the best thing yet offered. Failure to adopt it would invite collapse of the rentenmark and economic chaos in Germany. He believed foreign capital would not flinch from floating the German loan, which is a part of the plan.

He thought a fair apportionment of the loan would be $100,000,000 from the United States, $75,000,000 from Great Britain and $25,000,000 from continental countries.

As for the complaint that the plan failed to fix the total reparations bill, thus leaving Germany in a state of uncertainty for the future, he said that that was a consideration the future would itself adjust.

PARTISAN ELECTIONS

We had a "Presidential preferential" election on Tuesday and that is about all we can say about it, for so far as the voters took any interest in it the result was almost known beforehand. That is, so many more Republicans preferred President Coolidge to Johnson as the nominee at Cleveland and so many Democrats preferred Ex-Governor Cox over McAdoo as the nominee at New York that it scarcely seemed worth while going through the form of election to determine "preference." But all the same we suppose the friends of Johnson and McAdoo might have claimed they were not treated squarely. And as to the result in Greene County it seems to tally well with the general opinion of "preference" the country over. So far as we remember we think the "preference" was let go to the party national convention, but perhaps the latter plan is better.

And as to helping in the way of public interest in the selection of our national ruler, as was likely expected, it has perhaps been a good thing, on account of unusual conditions resulting from the death of President Harding who undoubtedly would have been made the Republican candidate for re-election.

We know of course that the election was to select the delegates to the two party national convention, and so far as that is concerned must have been held. And we might add that we have heard no complaints on this score, and from Republicans many congratulations to their delegates.

1904--Twenty Years Ago--1924

But very few new cases have recently been filed in the Court of Common Pleas and litigation in Greene County appears to be on the decrease. At the beginning of the May term of court there are but 172 cases on the docket. The Treble building on South Detroit street, is being improved by a new cement walk. A large number of Xenians will be attracted to Dayton on Wednesday by the Ringling circus. Ground has been broken for the new residence and business block on South Detroit Street, to be erected by Mr. Harry Gallagher. The old work house board having been legislated out of existence in this city, it has been supplanted by the Board of Public Service.

UNCLE SAM: 'BY GUM, I NEED A SPRING TONIC'

Just Folks by Edgar A. Guest

THE HARD PROBLEM
I know it's hard to do, but then
Don't give up in weak despair.
Stick to it, boy, and try again,
The easy task to naught amounts
'Tis doing something hard that counts.

The weaklings always turn aside
When difficulties bar their way,
From trial they would run and hide,
"I can't," the cowards always say.
So when you're troubled, play the man,
Stick to your task and say, "I can."

Would I could make you understand
The easy task no glory brings;
The only conquer and command
Who have the grit for sterner things.

The problem's hard to do, my son,
But don't forget, it can be done.

Tomorrow, when your class shall meet,
You watch your schoolmates then and see
How many of them will repeat:
"That problem was too hard for me."
And tell me when you come home at night
About the few who got it right.

Hard problems are the test we face.
Who stops with every little doubt
Will never win a leader's place;
Stick to it, son, and see it through—
The thing to do is work them out.
He sighed: "Oh, gee; That's hard to do."

Today's Talks

THE "SOMETIMES" OF THE MIND —new "sometimes" appear. Perhaps there are times when I am very much a stranger to myself. This helps to make me charitable when others seem like strangers to me, or I to them.

I find that the mind has its "sometimes"—when it wants to bury itself in something like thick air and just think, or pray, or wait.

And then again it wants to rush out into the sunlight and mix its substance with the crowd, for stimulus and hope and inspiration.

We cannot change our thoughts as we change our clothes. Too many moods beset them.

But we can take these moods and live them out to the full, and then let them take their place in some dark or light corner of the mind where they most belong.

There come hours when I want more than anything else that someone may understand me. But it's just at such times that no one is around for this particular task.

Nearly every night before I take this body and put it under covers for rest and sleep, I sit by my window and listen to the fall of the spring below, a hundred feet or so in the woods. And every night new thoughts —new "sometimes" appear. Perhaps it is a brilliant starlighted night, or very dark from mist and the promise of rain or storm. But always there is the same happy falling of the waters with its even song.

I have often wished that all my "sometimes" might be as happy and even and helpful as the "sometimes" that are everywhere in nature. For no matter what the change—and even the simplest commonplaces of nature have their change—there is nothing to disturb.

No matter what brand of baking powder you use, you may have success with your baking today—but what about tomorrow or next week. Uniformity—unfailing success every day in the year—that's the biggest mark of merit a leavener can have—and that's the very thing that has made Calumet Baking Powder the preferred bake-day aid of America.

If you doubt the unusual quality of Calumet, make a test—bake a cake with any baking powder you may select—then use the same recipe and employ Calumet.

This very test has caused millions upon millions of women to turn from a baking powder they had used for years—it has proven to them that the "Best by Test" leavener is the purest that money can buy. For better bakings—day in and day out—use Calumet.

BRAND EXPLAINS HIS OPPOSITION TO LABOR MEASURE

Congressman Charles Brand of Urbana, representative of the seventh district, has explained his opposing vote to the proposed amendment to the constitution empowering Congress to prohibit labor of children under 18 years, in a statement issued recently.

His statement follows: "The proposition is to amend the Constitution of the United States so that Congress is empowered to prohibit people under 18 years of age from engaging in any kind of labor, either in the factory or in the home, or on the farm or in the mind.

"Amendments were offered exempting labor in the home and on the farm but were voted down.

"I voted against the measure for several reasons: "On general principles I am not inclined to change the Constitution. "I believe people should work before they are 13 years of age for their own good. Personally I have never known any person under 18 hurt by labor, but I have known many harmed by idleness.

"I am opposed to the national government increasing its functions by creating new bureaus and millions of new expense. I am also opposed to the parents of the nation being forced to ask a Washington bureau, sometimes arrogant with authority, for permission to develop their children by cultivating industrious habits.

"Finally forty five states out of forty-eight have already Child Labor Laws and the need for national action is rapidly disappearing. The states having no child labor laws are Mississippi, Utah and Wyoming, and are not industrial states. "If we intend to reduce taxation we must act by way of subtraction rather than by addition of governmental functions, especially where such functions duplicate state efforts. About twenty organizations demanded this legislation. Shall we follow our conscience or these organizations composed of a part of the public?"

FURNITURE SENT FROM HOLLAND IN LITTLE HOUSE

Household effects and furniture of Dr. and Mrs. Martin Dowling, shipped here from Rotterdam, Holland, in a miniature house, have arrived and have been unloaded at the home of Dr. and Mrs. Dowling on East Market Street.

The container of the furniture built like a small building with a door for entrance way, attracted attention on its arrival here. Dr. and Mrs. Dowling came to America on the Nieu Amsterdam, a ship of the Holland-American line, with which company Dr. Dowling was connected for more than twenty-five years as chief surgeon.

The box was placed aboard the same ship by use of a crane and winch, and transported to Xenia by the steamship company, coming by rail from New York. It has hauled to the Dowling residence on a truck and since being unloaded, has been kept in the back yard there.

The household furniture included a clock more than 300 years old which was the property of Mrs. Dowling.

LANDIS TESTIFIES IN INVESTIGATION IN WASHINGTON

Washington, May 2—Kenesaw Mountain Landis, high commissioner of baseball, appeared today as a "star" witness at the Wheeler-Brookhart investigation of the department of justice.

Landis was called in connection with charges that Philip Grossman, an alleged Chicago bootlegger, used political influence to escape serving a year's sentence imposed by Landis in 1921, when he was federal judge in Chicago.

EMBARGO PLACED ON ARMS TO CUBA

Washington, May 2—President Coolidge today placed an embargo on the shipments of arms and ammunition from the U. S. to Cuba, where a revolution is expected momentarily.

DEADLIEST FIGHTING MACHINE READY

Dayton, O., May 2—The most efficient aerial engine of death, conceived since aviation was invented has been completed at McCook Field. It is an airplane, built to fight at 30,000 feet. It will be subjected to severe tests next Monday. Officials at the field say it is a combination fighting plane, that it can be used for bombing and for aerial fighting.

It has a speed of only 135 miles an hour and is equipped with a super charger, which feed sea level air into the combustion chamber at from 18,000 feet up. This makes high altitude work possible.

It mounts machine guns, bomb racks and special aerial photography equipment, carries receiving and sending radio sets and is the last word in airplane construction.

It is said that in warfare the new plane will be especially deadly. It resembles the Tp-1 in which Lieutenant Harris R. Harris recently set a world record with 550 pounds of dead weight.

GUESTS OF ROTARY

GRAND JURY TAKES UP INVESTIGATION OF DRY ACTIVITIES

Toledo, May 2.—The grand jury began an investigation of the enforcement of dry laws by justices of the peace throughout Lucas county.

The inquiry follows Assistant Attorney General Griswold's report to Attorney General Crabbe of his probe here. Griswold said in his report that enforcement was largely a commercial proposition and that many enforcement officers themselves were men of bad repute.

Other charges made by Griswold were: Searches were illegally made; pleas of guilty were secured by threats of federal court action; blank warrants were issued to enforcement officers; foreigners, ignorant of their rights, were taken advantage of. Griswold also said the constables and deputies waged a "contest" for "customers," which was particularly repulsive.

The inquiry was one of the results of charges made by Judge Kilbitt and others and the ruling by Crabbe outlawing "card officers" and the split fee system.

Griswold in his report said: "Violators of the law were looked upon, not as offenders against the dignity of the state, but merely as sources of revenue, to be zealously guarded. Constables, marshals and deputies from the various courts indulged in a spirited contest with respect to their so-called rights in the matter of 'knocking off' their victims. This contest became so severe at times that the jail matron complained of the commotion caused by these officers standing just outside the county jail and berating each other for 'knocking off' certain individuals from one court before those individuals had paid their fines in another court."

Many of the officers were men of bad repute and many of them known to be men with criminal records, the report also avers. "The testimony alleging a multitude of irregular and unlawful practices in connection with searches and seizures, alleged 'planting' of evidence on the property of prospective victims, exorbitant costs and fees and 'the absolute disregard of the rights' of the victims."

The victims accordingly "got the impression that the attitude of the officers of the law was that a bootlegger had no rights which the officers were bound to respect."

Directing attention to evidence which tends to show that justices and mayors and their minions manipulated the charges against various defendants when the latter were "unable to pay the minimum fine under the prohibition act, together with the costs," changing the charge from that of possession to one of being drunk and disorderly. "In this case a fine of $10 and costs would be imposed and the fine immediately suspended. It is significant, however, that even in these cases a charge was made for transporting both the person and the evidence and the costs were invariably collected," the report declares.

TELLS WEIRD STORY OF KILLING MAN.

MRS. JOHANNA TELL, INTEL.

Mrs. Johanna Tell, blue-eyed, red-haired woman of 30, walked into the office of the District Attorney of Bronx County, New York City, and calmly confessed that she had shot her employer, Charles Blaha, then beaten him to death with an axe, and buried his body in a pit on his farm in Connecticut. They quarrelled, she said, because, as his housekeeper, she would not get a divorce and marry him, nor would she live with him as his common-law wife. Initial search for the body proved futile, and the police were inclined, for a time, to disbelieve her story.

SENIOR CLASS PLAY AT SCHOOL AUDITORIUM REFLECTS CREDIT ON PERFORMERS THURSDAY

The senior class of Central High School presented its annual class play, "The Boomerang," by Booth Tarkington, before an appreciative audience Thursday night at the Jean B. Elwell Auditorium of the school.

The auditorium was filled with parents, friends and relatives who expressed their appreciation in undivided attention and unqualified applause. Sitting tense and on the edge of seats, the audience gave the amateurs the proper moral support and full right of way.

Singing of the class song written by Miss Lucille Denham with accompaniment by the senior orchestra opened the program and showed the musical ability to be found in the class.

The curtain raised on the consulting room of Dr. Summer as played by David Doggett, who was bewailing the fact that he had neither patients nor patience. The part was that of the typical and natural young physician, and he carried the role with sincerity and earnestness and yet enough of the curious to be amusing.

Miss Dorothy Hickman as "Virginia Xelva," taking the lead, entered upon the scene and in her appealing manner won for herself the position of nurse and a place in the hearts of the audience at once. Carrying her part wonderfully well she captured the hearts of her hearers by her complete ease and sweet, winsome way.

Tom Conklin, however, took the audience off its feet by his superb handling of his part as "Budd Woodbridge," madly in love with "Grace Tyler," as played by Miss Louise Barnett, and who is on the verge of a nervous breakdown, induced by jealousy. Acting as naturally and humanly possible, Tommy won his laurels and in a manner never to be forgotten, carried the comedy of the play, and portrayed both sympathy and pathos in a high manner for which he deserves great credit.

Miss Harriet Keller, as the society matron and mother of "Bud," handled her part in the scheme and plot of the play exceedingly well. James Bryson, as "Preston Dewitt," and Miss Louise Barnett as "Grace Tyler," each presented a pleasing atmosphere to the play and in fact each excelled in the portrayal of their characters.

The cast, well selected, presented its performance with never a dull moment, was highly entertaining and well worth the highest praise. Carrying lighter and yet not-forgotten parts and adding greatly to the plot were portrayals by Ernest Jones as "Emile," Dale Washburn as "Hartley," Miss Florence Chew as "Marion Summer," Miss Irene Parrett as "Gertrude Ludlow" and Miss Betty Reutinger as "Aunt Jennie Woodbridge."

Robert Owens, although not long on the stage took the part of the aged and crippled "Mr. Stone" in the last scene, gave a finished performance and created a storm of laughter with his characterization, presenting a rather peculiar contrast to the usual precise parts before this time.

In the second scene, in order to carry out the story, a party given for "Budd" on his birthday arranged for a number of the members of the class to be present as guest. The guest list included: Betty Reutinger, Thelma Rountzong, Katherine Lane, Beatrice Stuft, Catherine Miller, Elizabeth McCormick, Helen Fisher, Ruth Fudge, Mildred Mason, Harley Brewer, Arthur Hyman, Arthur Currie, Edman Moore and Philip Frame. The final scene brings the reconciliation of "Budd" with Miss Tyler, and the realization to "Miss Xelva" and of "Dr. Summer" of their mutual love, and Tarkington's clever story ends with true "Boomerang" effect.

The cast portrayed the careful tutelage given it by Miss Jean B. Elwell, who scored another class night success with the capable presentation of the drama. The play will be repeated Friday night for a second night's audience. School children were entertained at a dress rehearsal Thursday afternoon.

BERNARR MACFADDEN

Health Hints by the Father of Physical Culture

If any one of the spinal vertebrae is displaced in the slightest degree, it very often presses upon the spinal cord or impinges either the motor or sensory nerve which emerges from the spinal cord at that point, and as a result, some part of the body is affected by this pressure. Paralysis, for instance, can be easily caused by pressure of this kind. Even where the complaint is not of such a serious nature, a comparatively slight amount of pressure affecting one or more nerves is liable to lessen their efficiency and thus cause partial paralysis, and so prevent the particular part to which the nerves are connected from working properly.

Straightening the spine will therefore, as you can readily realize, remedy serious defects of this nature. In fact, this is the theory upon which osteopaths largely proceed. They maintain that a properly formed spine is absolutely necessary to the enjoyment of the highest degree of health, and that if any of your organs is not properly performing its functions, the cause can, in practically every case, be located in the spine. When one or more of the vertebrae are misplaced or pressing upon the nerves within the spinal column, they are lessening the efficiency of the particular parts controlled by these nerves.

Now in moving the body in any direction, there is a certain amount of movement of the spinal column. Whenever you move in any direction, the spinal column bends in accordance with the posture of the body. It is this bending back and forth and from side to side that gives this particular part of the body the necessary use required to keep it in a satisfactory degree of health. The spinal column is bound together with tendinous tissues. Over and surrounding this, are the muscles that help to hold it in place. The bending of the spine in various directions strengthens not only the ligaments and tendons but the muscles. The proper use of any part of the body adds to its general vigor, and if any of the vertebrae should be misplaced, the vigorous use of the muscles around the spinal column, the strengthening of the ligaments and muscles, finally forces the misplaced vertebrae into its proper position.

CRABBE IS WILLING TO STEP ASIDE IN FAVOR OF BURTON

Columbus, May 2.—Attorney General C. C. Crabbe, who arrived here today from Washington, confirmed the report that he would join the several Republican candidates for the Ohio gubernatorial nomination in withdrawing their names from consideration and supporting Representative Theodore E. Burton of Cleveland for head of the state ticket this year.

Crabbe indicated that unless Mr. Burton consented to run, he, Crabbe, would probably become a candidate. In a field of six or more seeking the nomination, he believes he stands as good a chance as any of landing it, Crabbe said.

"I don't want to see a wild scramble for the gubernatorial nomination. If all those who are now after it or expect to become candidates would step aside and let it go to Mr. Burton without a contest, I am sure the Republican ticket would be victorious in Ohio this year. Mr. Burton is a man of national distinction and highly qualified for the governorship. If he can be persuaded to run, I, for one, would gladly sacrifice any chance I might have for the nomination in the interest of party harmony and success in the November election."

Representative Burton, who has been chosen for temporary chairman of the Cleveland national convention, has frequently been urged to become a candidate for the gubernatorial nomination, but has let it be known that he would consider it only in the event that he is assured there would be no contest and he would not be required to make a primary campaign.

Attorney General Crabbe left for Cleveland today at direction of Governor Donahey to start criminal prosecutions against officers of the defunct Municipal Savings and Loan company. On Saturday Crabbe will announce his selection of two special assistant attorneys general to conduct the grand jury investigation and handle all cases brought to trial.

KNUTSON ACQUITTED IN VIRGINIA COURT

Washington, May 2.—Representative Harold Knutson, Minnesota, was found to be not guilty by a jury at Arlington, Va., yesterday of statutory charges, growing out of an automobile ride in Virginia last March, with Leroy M. Hull, Washington Government clerk.

The jury was out one hour and three minutes.

Immediately upon announcement of the verdict the Commonwealth Attorney entered a motion dismissing the case against Hull.

In a statement after the verdict, Representative Knutson said it was "just what he expected and I have been confident of the outcome right along."

The jury was said to have taken three ballots.

BRINGING UP FATHER

THE HALF-TIME WIFE By VIOLET DARE

WHO'S WHO AND WHAT'S HAPPENED

DUNCAN HALE, a young army officer, returns from the Philippines to find that SUZANNE, with whom he is in love, has married.

GEORGE ATWOOD, a prominent man much older than she, Hale tries to persuade her to leave her husband, get a divorce and marry him, feeling sure that she still cares for him. Suzanne is troubled by this, and by the report that there is a love affair between

DICK LEIGH, Geoffrey's nephew, and a chorus girl.

LINDA VALE, Atwood's secretary, introduces herself to Suzanne, and makes a determined effort to interfere between husband and wife. At Dick's request, Suzanne gives a little party for the chorus girl.

LOLLA, Mrs. Vale manages to be asked.

VII—A CRUEL SURPRISE.

SUZANNE followed Anne Graham across the restaurant to a table in the middle of the room. She felt that it would have been worth any price to escape this luncheon; she was in no mood for gossip with the lively Anne.

"Half of the world seems to be lunching here today," Miss Graham commented, as she tossed her coat back and drew off her gloves. "There's Will Howard with his sister-in-law; they're always together! And look at Mrs. Adams; did you ever see such a smart hat? Her husband will be bankrupt; the first thing anyone knows, and she'll have done it. She was the prettiest girl in town before she was married, and she can't forget it; keeps right on buying awfully expensive clothes and trying still to be a beauty, though her looks have faded dreadfully. My dear, look quick, at that girl in mourning over in the corner. See her? Well, she's Mrs. Haynes' second cousin, and she—"

Anne stopped as if someone had muzzled her; when she began to talk again her voice had a hard, strained note, and she changed the subject abruptly, calling Suzanne's attention to a woman on the other side of the room from that where the girl in mourning sat. Suzanne, who had turned only halfway round to see Mrs. Haynes' second cousin, wondered at the change, but did not concern herself with it; Anne's conversation was always like a grasshopper, alighting on a new topic every five seconds.

Suzanne hardly knew what she was eating, and cared not at all. What would Geoff say about the earrings and necklace that she had just bought? Would he think that she had been hopelessly extravagant? He had rebuked her but had never scolded her; had always given her money without her asking for it, and had paid her bills without a murmur. But he hated extravagance, she knew, and two hundred and fifty dollars was a lot of money for just baubles. She loathed them, as she sat fingering the necklace, conscious

DISCUSSES MILLER ACT FOR STATE

Columbus, May 2.—Judge William Barnum of Youngstown, one of the attorneys for former Police Chief James Watkins of Youngstown, who is seeking reversal of Governor Donahey's action in removing him last summer, told the Ohio supreme court that upon its interpretation of the so-called Miller act, creating a state prohibition department and enforcement officers and providing for the removal by the governor of officials who fail to enforce the law, depends the status of its members themselves, members of the state legislature and every other official in the state.
